HOME INSURANCE POLICY

1. Definitions

Covered dwelling means the residential structure described on the declarations page.

2. Coverage

We cover sudden and accidental direct physical loss to the dwelling and other structures caused by a covered peril. Personal property coverage applies to belongings owned by the insured while they are located at the insured residence.

3. Exclusions

We do not cover flood, surface water, sewer backup, earth movement, or wear and tear.

4. Exceptions

Coverage may apply to sewer backup if optional sewer backup coverage is shown on the declarations page.

5. Conditions

The insured must promptly report a loss, protect the property from further damage, and provide documentation requested by the carrier.

6. Limitations

The dwelling limit shown on the declarations page is the maximum payment for covered dwelling damage.
